DETAILED ACTION

Claims 53 and 54 are objected for being dependent on a cancelled claim. Claims 53 and 54 are therefore not subject to restriction requirement.

Formatted: Indent: First line: 36 pt

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 44-50, drawn to a mutated V1/AR1/AV1 or C1/AL1/AC1 gene sequence of a tomato infecting Gemini virus.

Group II, claim(s) 51-52, drawn to a synthetic construct comprising a mutated gene.

Group III, claim(s) 55--68, drawn to a method for preparation of transgenic plants having long lasting resistance against Gemini viruses.

For Groups I and III, restrictions to one of genes as listed in claim 61, one of the nucleotide sequences of SEQ ID NO: 2, 4, 6 and 8 and its corresponding polypeptide sequence of SEQ ID NO: 3, 5, 7 and 9 are also required.

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species groups: 1) different geminiviruses as listed in claim 58; 2) different Begomoviruses listed in claim 59; and 3) different Mastrevirus, Curtovirus and Topovirus species listed in claim 60. Applicants are required to elect one species from each of the groups, if applicable.

The inventions listed as Groups I-III do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

The technical feature linking the inventions of Groups I-III is a mutated Gemini virus gene. However, such sequence is anticipated by van Wezel et al (2002, MPMI 15:203-208). van Wezel et al. teach that a mutated C2 gene from TYLCY (abstract). Therefore this technical feature does not constitute a special technical feature as defined by PCT Rule 13.2, because it does not define a contribution over the prior art.

Applicants are reminded that different nucleotide sequences and amino acid sequences are structurally distinct chemical compounds and are unrelated to one another. These sequences are thus deemed to normally constitute different inventive concepts.

Claims that do not read on the elected nucleotide sequence or polypeptide sequence will be considered withdrawn. Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the nucleotide sequence or polypeptide sequence that is selected. An election that does not identify the nucleotide sequence or polypeptide sequence will be considered nonresponsive. This requirement is not to be construed as a requirement for an election of species, since each nucleotide and amino acid sequence is not a member of single genus of invention, but constitutes an independent and patentably distinct invention.

The species are independent or distinct because claims to the different species recite the mutually exclusive characteristics of such species. In addition, these species are not obvious variants of each other based on the current record.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 55, 58 are generic.

There is an examination and search burden for these patentably distinct species due to their mutually exclusive characteristics. The species require a different field of search (e.g., searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); and/or the prior art applicable to one species would not likely be applicable to another species; and/or the species are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the species unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other species.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
